

Universities of Cambridge, Oxford and Reading, Royal Holloway, University College
London

Joint Postgraduate Training Programme in Italian 2007/8

SECOND DAY: Friday 7 March, 2008
St Hugh's College, Oxford

10.30-11 Coffee and Welcome

First year sessions

11.00 - 11.30 Nicola Gardini, Models of Italian Studies in Italy

11.30 - 12.00 Guido Bonsaver,
Interdisciplinarity

12.00 - 12.30 Denis Reidy, Italian Resources at the British Library

12.30 - 1.00 Martin McLaughlin, Italian Studies Associations

Second and third-year sessions

11.00 - 11.30 Manuele Gagnolati, How to make a job application

11.30 - 12.00 Manuele Gagnolati, How to write and present a conference paper

12.00 - 12.30 Nicola Gardini, How to write a book review

12.30 - 1.00 Emanuela Tandello and Francesca Southerden, *Teaching tips:
Modern Poetry*

1.00-2.00 Lunch

2.00- 4.30 Afternoon panel

Literature since World War I (Chair, Martin McLaughlin)

Alessandro Carlucci (RHUL), Gramsci's Ideas on Language

Doireann Lalor (Oxford), The Neo-avant-garde in the Wake of English Modernism

Francesca Magnabosco (Oxford), "Unfading" wonder. Meraviglia in literature as a connection between the human and the divine

St Hugh's College is about 1.5 miles from Oxford Rail Station, less from the central bus station at Gloucester Green. Take any number 2 or number 7 bus (destination Kidlington) from Magdalen Street, by the Randolph Hotel, and ask for St Margaret's Road. Or walk! Further instructions are at http://www.st-hughs.ox.ac.uk/The_College/Location_and_Maps.php

The third session this year will take place at Reading on Friday 9 May. For the draft programme, and for more information on the Joint Programme in general, including lists of students and staff, see

<http://www.reading.ac.uk/italian/jointprog/>

DAVID ROBEY
MARTIN McLAUGHLIN
March 6, 2008