The University of Reading The University of Reading English; Film and Drama Programme length: 3 years Date of specification: April 2003

Summary of programme aims

This is a multi-disciplinary programme that aims to provide students with subject specific knowledge and more general skills, including knowledge of a variety of different kinds of literary, dramatic and film texts, from a range of different periods. Students will become familiar with the variety of critical perspectives and analytical methods within and between the disciplines. The course aims to foster an independent approach to formulating problems and arguments, using the close reading and analytical skills that are fundamental to the disciplines of English and of Film and Theatre.

Transferable skills

The University's Strategy for Teaching and Learning has identified a number of generic skills which all students are expected to have developed by the end of their degree programme. In following this programme, students will have had the opportunity to enhance their skills relating to career management, communication (both written and oral), information handling, numeracy, problem-solving, team working and use of information technology.

From their studies in English and Film & Theatre, students are expected to gain a range of transferable intellectual and personal skills including: the ability to communicate fluently and effectively; the ability to formulate and evaluate their own arguments and those of others, and to translate subject-specific knowledge and skills to new environments; the ability to work both independently and co-operatively with others; effective time-management; the ability to access and deploy relevant information resources, and to develop word-processing and IT skills.

Programme content

Part 1 of the joint degree programme introduces students to debates about approaches to the study of literature, film and drama, and to methodologies of critical analysis, through close study of selected texts. Parts 2 and 3 offer a greater element of choice, a more concentrated focus on individual historical periods, topics, and/or generic traditions, and an increasing opportunity for specialization and independent study.

Each Part of the degree programme comprises 120 credits. In Part 1, students take 60 credits in the School of English and 60 credits in Film and Theatre studies. In Parts 2 and 3 they must also normally take 60 credits each year in both English and Film & Theatre., but, in consultation with their programme adviser, they may choose to take up to 20 Intermediate (Part 2) credits from modules available elsewhere in the University.

Progression requirements

To proceed from Part 1 to Part 2, a Joint Honours student must (i) obtain an average of 40% across all Part 1 modules; (ii) achieve a minimum of 40% in each English module, and in each of the two compulsory modules in the Department of Film, Theatre & Television; and (iii) have no mark less than 30% in any module, except that marks of less than 30% in a total of 20 credits may be condoned, provided the candidate has pursued the course for the module with reasonable diligence and has not been absent from the examination without cause. To proceed from Part 2 to Part 3, students must obtain an overall average of at least 40% and achieve not less than 30% in any module, except that marks of less than 30% in a total of 20 credits may be condoned, provided that the candidate has pursued the course for that module with reasonable diligence and has not been absent from the examination without cause.

Summary of teaching and assessment

Teaching is through seminars, lectures and essay tutorials. The Dissertation module is supported by individual supervision in both English and Film & Theatre, and by dissertation workshops in the School of English. Teaching styles are varied to encourage active engagement by students. Film and theatre viewings are a central component in the teaching of Film and Theatre. Over the programme as a whole, assessment will be conducted through a mixture of assessed essays plus informal and formal examination.

Conventions for degree classification are included in the Programme Handbook, but you should note that weighting between Part 2 and Part 3 for classification purposes is 33% and 67%. The University's honours classification is as follows:

Mark	Interpretation
70% - 100%	First class
60% - 69%	Upper Second class
50% - 59%	Lower Second class
40% - 49%	Third class
35% - 39%	Fail: not of Honours standard
0% - 34%	Fail

Admission requirements

Entrants to the English Literature/Film and Theatre programme are normally required to have obtained:

UCAS Tariff: either 280 points from three A2s, including 100 points (grade B) in English Literature or English Language and Literature; or 320 points from 3 A2s + up to two AS, including 100 points (grade B) in English Literature or English Language and Literature Scottish Highers: ABBBB (A in English Literature)

Irish Leaving Certificate: ABBBB (A in English Literature)

International Baccalaureat: 31 points with at least 6 for Higher level English Literature GCSE/O English Language preferred: grade C or above

All applications are considered on their individual merits. Mature candidates will be usually be expected to have a B (100 points) at A level English, or equivalent qualifications, but consideration is also given to applicants with other qualifications and experience.

Admissions tutor: Mrs Carolyn Lyle (English)

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers, and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, the Careers Advisory Service, the University's Special Needs Advisor, Study Advisors, Hall Wardens and the Students' Union.

Students receive handbooks which give details of the programme, guidance on study skills such as note-taking and essay writing, and information about staff, facilities, and sources of specialized help within the University, such as the Study Skills Advisor and the Counselling Service. The programme is designed to give students extensive teaching support in Part 1 leading to more independent work in Part 3. Academic feedback and guidance is given through one-to-one essay tutorials, and academic and personal support is provided through the tutor system and the University's Personal and Academic Record (PAR) Scheme. Dissertation workshops prepare students for the Part 3 dissertation, which is individually supervised. The Geoffrey Matthews Collection, housed in the School of English, provides books, xeroxed materials, cassettes and a growing library of videos for loan to students. A video-viewing suite is available on the Whiteknights campus. Film and Theatre (on the Bulmershe campus) has an extensive collection of film and television programmes, to which students may have access, and a wide range of viewing facilities. The Library, which has buildings on both the Whiteknights and Bulmershe campuses, is well-stocked with printed materials as well as essential electronic databases on-line and on CD ROM, such as the OED, the MLA Bibliography, and JSTOR. Specialist subject librarians are available to give students advice and guidance to library resources.

Career prospects

Since the English/Film and Theatre degree is not a directly vocational programme, career possibilities are very wide-ranging. Graduates find that the specific as well as the transferable skills developed by the programme enable them to enter many fields of work including education, publishing, journalism, the media, management, administration, public relations, advertising and the performance industries. A Reading degree in English and Film & Theatre provides graduates with a range of communication and analytical skills that will serve them in good stead in the world of work. A number of graduates each year go on to further academic study and research.

Opportunities for study abroad

Students may, with permission, opt for a four-year degree programme which involves spending the third year abroad, at one of the European universities with which Reading has a Socrates exchange agreement. They would actively participate in courses abroad, experience the teaching and learning processes of another institution, learn or improve their knowledge of another European language, and enhance their curriculum vitae. Students following the four-year programme must take 120 credits in their Year Abroad. Of this total, 40 credits of English studies (two courses undertaken at the host institution) will count towards degree classification; the remaining 80 credits are assigned for the experience and satisfactory completion of the year abroad, and are assessed on a Pass/Fail basis.

There may also be opportunities to study for one term in the United States under the American Studies exchange programme.

Educational aims of the programme

The programme seeks to develop students' knowledge and understanding of a wide range of literary, drama and film texts, and to promote an informed and self-reflective awareness of procedures of critical and cultural analysis. The overall aims are to enable students to achieve their full intellectual potential, and to equip them with broadly transferable skills of potential value to future employers.
