

World Association
of Girl Guides
and Girl ScoutsAssociation mondiale des Guides et des
EclaireusesAsociación
Mundial de las
Guías Scouts

Knowledge Transfer Partnerships at the University of Reading

Knowledge Transfer Partnerships support the partnership between business and universities or research organisations, placing graduates (KTP Associates) for 2 or more years, to work on challenging, high profile projects.

- Accelerate your career
- Gain valuable experience and make a contribution
- Earn a good salary
- Receive practical and formal training and gain marketable skills
- Benefit from the support of academic experts and KTP Advisers
- Possibility of a permanent post with the company

Learning Technologies Officer

Based near Belsize Park, London

Up to £25k pa depending on experience

Ref: KT10020

A Knowledge Transfer Partnership exists between the University of Reading's Institute of Education & School of Systems Engineering and the World Association of Girls Guides and Girls Scouts (WAGGGS). The aim of this exciting and innovative 24 month project is to take WAGGGS leadership programme to leaders in their own locations, with the use of Information Technology. The role will involve working closely with WAGGGS global membership.

WAGGGS is the largest not for profit international organisation providing high quality non formal educational programmes where girls and young women develop leadership and life skills through self-development, challenge and adventure. Our strength lies in the million of girls and young women we serve and the impact they have amongst their peers, their families and the wider communities in which they live. Although employed by the University of Reading, this post will be based at the company premises in London.

You should have a 1st or 2.1 in BSc in a Computing related subject. Evidence of technical abilities and skills in this area is essential, along with the talent to communicate technical concepts to a lay audience. The successful job holder will work closely with volunteers and staff from diverse backgrounds; this will require a level of flexibility and mutuality. The ability to work and travel independently is vital. You will have excellent communication and social skills as you will need to communicate with a wide range of people from a variety of cultures and backgrounds. Experience in formal and non formal education is desirable but not essential.

You will receive a package which offers, in addition to a competitive salary, excellent opportunities to further your professional development and support your career progression. As well as the opportunity to build your own personal network and experience, you will be able to access relevant Management courses offered by the University or similar institutions plus the opportunity to achieve a higher degree at a reduced cost or no cost (if appropriate) to you.

Please complete the online application form, which can be found at <http://www.reading.ac.uk/about/jobs/> and email this together with your CV quoting the above reference number. For further details, visit www.rdg.ac.uk/ktp and <http://www.wagggsworld.org>

Closing date: 11th February 2011

Interviews to be held: 22nd February 2011

Only candidates invited to interview will be notified.

A great way to further your professional development

