evaluation and complaints

Guidance note on seeking approval to run a student survey

1. This guidance note sets out the process for approval to run a survey to seek feedback from students. This process is intended to ensure that any new surveys are designed for maximum impact and will lead to enhancement of teaching and learning, the student experience and external reputation.
2. Surveys enable students to share their thoughts and concerns about the University's provision and the student experience. They empower students to engage with the academic community and to share responsibility for enhancement, and can lead to real change.
3. The separate Policy on Student Evaluation of Teaching and Learning articulates University processes in relation to mid-module evaluation, module evaluation and programme evaluation. The Student Academic Representation Policy provides further information on the role of student representatives across the University's institutional structures and committees.

Section A: Background

Applicability of this guidance note

4. For the purpose of this guidance note, a survey is defined as “a systematic collection and analysis of data from across the University, undertaken specifically for the benefit of students and/or the University and conducted to analyse a defined and finite group of students (for instance, all undergraduates), the results of which seek to show trends and are required for a purpose”.
5. The process described in this guidance note covers permissions for questionnaires sent to a group of 50 current students or more.
6. This process does not apply to instances where student feedback is requested on a one-to-one basis (e.g. a post-appointment feedback form).
7. As noted above, the processes in relation to mid-module, module and programme evaluation are addressed in the separate Policy on Student Evaluation of Teaching and Learning and the guidelines specified within this document do not apply to the operation of these types of student evaluations.
8. This process does not apply to instances where Schools want internal feedback from discrete groups of students internally. This is predicated on the assumption that Schools will not run surveys that clash with those run by the University that are of strategic importance (i.e. in the Spring Term).

9. Surveys in the University can be divided into distinct categories. These are:
 - a. surveys that do not impact on current students (i.e. admissions surveys and DLHE);
 - b. compulsory external surveys (National Student Survey - NSS);
 - c. external surveys over which we have no control (e.g. Times Higher Education Experience Survey - THESES, Universities Partnership Programme – UPP, and Higher Education Policy Institute - HEPI);
 - d. optional external surveys (e.g. UK Engagement Survey - UKES, Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey - PTES, Postgraduate Research Experience Survey - PRES);
 - e. internal surveys (e.g. Reading Student Survey - RSS);
 - f. ad hoc surveys (e.g. Careers, Welcome Week);
 - g. RUSU surveys.

10. This process relates purely to new surveys such as those listed in e-g, although the principles of reporting and feedback should ideally be the same throughout. It is hoped that RUSU will voluntarily use these guidelines for their surveys, particularly regarding items 12 and 13 below.

Principles of this guidance note

11. It is at the discretion of the University whether a survey is run. This decision begins with completion of a new student survey request form (Appendix 1).

12. Normally, any proposed new survey will be submitted for scrutiny and it is expected that permission is sought well in advance of the date of the proposed survey to allow it to be submitted to the relevant body.

13. Any new survey must meet some of the following criteria, preferably (a) and at least one other:
 - a. The objectives of the survey cannot be fulfilled through reference to existing survey outcomes, planned surveys, other available data, or through other means (e.g. focus groups)
 - b. The survey is required to meet institutional strategic objectives
 - c. The survey is responding to student feedback, and will inform enhancement of our teaching activity or other services.
 - d. The survey is required for external compliance
 - e. The survey will provide data enabling useful benchmarking with other institutions and/or impact on the University's external reputation through league tables or other measures
 - f. Participation in the survey will support sector-wide initiatives to which the University wishes to contribute

14. Notwithstanding meeting criteria stated above, new surveys must be considered in the light of existing survey timings (Appendix 2) to avoid overloading students and reducing response rates in surveys that meet institutional strategic objectives. This is of particular importance during the Spring Term when the National Student Survey (NSS) must take priority.

15. A summary of the main results and findings from any student survey should be shared with the appropriate committee as soon as is practical to do so. It is expected that this will include a breakdown of response rates, headline analysis of the results and planned action to be taken to ensure that the feedback loop has been closed. Details of who is responsible for collating this report, acting on feedback and sharing data should be agreed prior to the approval of a new survey. Data produced at the School level should be shared with the appropriate Teaching and Learning Dean (TLD) and used in the SPELT process if relevant.
16. It is essential that any survey data collected is used to meet the objectives of the survey outlined in the application form (see Section B below). If the form specifies a feedback session to the students, or dissemination of data on e.g. Student Staff Liaison Committee, Blackboard or the Student Experience Hub, it is expected that this will occur within a reasonable time period post-analysis to enable changes to be instigated.
17. Depending on the aims and scope of the survey, a final report should be sent on to the University Board for Teaching, Learning and Student Experience (UBTLSE) or one of its sub-committees (e.g. Committee on Student Experience and Development (CoSED) or the Sub-Committee on the Delivery and Enhancement of Learning and Teaching (DELTA)). This is essential if the survey is aimed at students across the University.
18. Any key matters arising from a University-wide survey should be discussed at the UBTLSE annual meeting at the start of the Autumn Term when key matters arising out of other surveys are discussed.

Section B: How to apply to run a survey

19. Any member of staff in a School/Department or professional services wishing to undertake a student survey should follow the procedure outlined below.
20. Read this guidance note to ensure the type of survey you are planning is subject to the procedure outlined in this document.
21. If permission is required, complete the attached 'New survey request form' and return it to Marketing, Communication & Engagement (MCE) who will advise, in consultation with the Chair of UBTLSE, if the survey will be passed on to UBTLSE or one of its sub-committees for approval (this can be by Chair's action). Please note that permission should be sought at least 2 months prior to the survey running to ensure that mechanisms are in place for advertising to students.
22. Ensure that you have already agreed who would analyse your data and disseminate results.
23. MCE will consult with the Planning & Strategy Office (PSO), Data Protection Officer (IMPS) and any other relevant stakeholders, and if approved, depending on the nature of the request, will submit the form to UBTLSE or one of its sub-committees with a cover sheet to include a summary of stakeholder feedback and a recommendation.

24. UBTLSE or one of its sub-committees will communicate a decision to the applicant within one week of the meeting taking place (or by Chair's action) – this will usually be either approval for the survey (with recommended next steps) or a request to make revisions to the proposal.

25. MCE and PSO (if undertaking the analysis) should be copied in to any decision.
