

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

POSTGRADUATE COURSES

MSc APPLIED ECONOMICS

Designed by academics who have worked as professional economists in the UK Government Economic Service and the World Bank, this programme combines theoretical, methodological, and practical issues, based on rigorous training in core areas of the discipline. You will be introduced to core topics and methods in the analysis of economic data, while also developing data handling skills and learning to critically evaluate policies aimed at addressing contemporary socio-economic problems.

MSc BUSINESS ECONOMICS

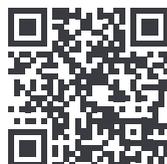

This truly international course exposes you to business economics chiefly at the level of the industry and the firm, but also with some coverage of theories of the entrepreneur. The core modules provide up-to-date introductions to business economics and research methods, while optional modules in areas such as the economics of financial markets, development economics, and the economics of public policy enable you to focus on your interests. You will also have the opportunity to participate in a project with an external organisation.

MSc ECONOMICS

This course equips you with the fundamental tools of a professional economist, teaching you to assess a wide range of theoretical, empirical, and policy issues. Your studies will systematically take you from micro-principles of economic behaviour to macro-outcomes of national and global importance, combining methodological, theoretical and applied issues. Incorporating interactive software-based learning, you can specialise with optional modules such as the economics of financial markets, and advanced macroeconomics and finance. You will also have the opportunity to participate in a project with an external organisation.

MA PUBLIC POLICY

Offered jointly by the Department of Economics and the Department of Politics and International Relations, our interdisciplinary degree uses insights from both areas to develop policymaking skills. You can focus on a specialist area including welfare policy, sustainable environments, global governance and international development. You can also undertake a Capstone project or an extended placement project.

Scan to learn more about our postgraduate courses in economics.