Summary of programme aims

This is a multi-disciplinary programme which aims to provide students with subject-specific knowledge, including knowledge of a variety of different kinds of literary, cultural and historical texts from a range of periods, as well as perspectives on different methods of critical analysis, and a high level of competence in the reception and production of spoken and written German. The course also aims to foster an independent approach to formulating problems and arguments, using the close reading and analytical skills that are fundamental to both disciplines.

Transferable skills

During the course of their studies at Reading, all students will be expected to enhance their academic and personal transferable skills. In following this programme, students will have had the opportunity to develop such skills, in particular relating to communication, interpersonal skills, learning skills, numeracy, self-management, use of IT and problem-solving and will have been encouraged to further develop and enhance the full set of skills through a variety of opportunities available outside their curriculum.

In addition, students on this joint degree programme are also expected to have gained experience and show competence in the following transferable skills: the ability to formulate and evaluate arguments, use of library and relevant information resources, self-reliance, effective time management, and cultural awareness.

Programme content

In Part 1 students take 60 credits in English Literature and at least 40 credits in German. In Parts 2 and 3 they must normally take 60 credits in both English Literature and German in each Part, but may, in consultation with their programme adviser, choose to take up to 20 credits from modules available elsewhere in the university. The Year Abroad takes place in the third year of the degree programme.

- (ii) marks of at least 40% in individual modules amounting to not less than 80 credits; and
- (iii) marks of at least 30% in individual modules amounting to not less than 120 credits.

In order to progress from Part 2 to the Year Abroad, a student must achieve a threshold performance

To progress from Year Abroad to Part 3, students must achieve (i) a weighted average of 40% over the 120 Year Abroad credits; (ii) marks of at least 40% in ML3YSWA; and (iii) marks of at least 30% on ML2YL5.

Assessment and classification

The University's honours classification scheme is:

Mark	Interpretation
70% - 100%	First class
60% - 69%	Upper Second class
50% - 59%	Lower Second class
40% - 49%	Third class
35% - 39%	Below Honours Standard
0% - 34%	Fail

For the University-wide framework for classification, which includes details of the classification method, please see: <http://www.reading.ac.uk/internal/exams/Policies/exa-class.aspx>.

The weighting of the Parts/Years in the calculation of the degree classification is

Four year programmes with a year abroad (MFL)

Year Two two ninths

Year Abroad three ninths

Year 4 four ninths

German language modules are taught in small groups; other modules in German and in English typically involve a mixture of lectures, small-group seminars and essay tutorials. Over the programme as a whole, assessment will be conducted through a mixture of assessed essays and formal examination. The Year Abroad module German Scheine will be assessed on the basis of certificates gained at the German/Austrian universities, and Oral and Aural German will be examined at the beginning of Part 3.

Conventions for degree classification are explained in the Programme Handbook, The conventions for assessment and classification are included in the Programme Handbook, but it should be noted that second-year modules count as two-ninths, year-abroad modules three ninths, and final-year modules four-ninths of the final assessment.

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained:

ABB or AAC from 3 A level subjects including a B grade in English Literature or English and Literature at A2, ABB or AAC from 3 A level subjects including a B grade in English Literature or a related subject and a B in German A level if entering at Advanced level, or A* in GCSE German if entering at Intermediate level.

Students entering with no German must normally have an A* at GCSE (or equivalent) in a European language.

Scottish Highers: AABBB

Irish Highers: AAABB at Higher level including English

International Baccalaureate: 32 points including 5 in English Higher and 5 in German Higher

All applications are considered on their individual merits. Mature candidates will be usually be expected to have a B at A level in English or equivalent qualifications, but consideration is also given to applicants with other qualifications and experience.

Admissions Tutor: Dr Mary Morrissey

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support is provided by a wide array of services across the University, including: the University Library, the Careers, Placement and Experience Centre (CPEC), In-session English Support Programme, the Study Advice and Mathematics Support Centre teams, IT Services and the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@il) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, School Senior Tutors, the Students' Union, the Medical Practice and advisers in the Student Services Centre. The Student Services Centre is housed in the Carrington Building and offers advice on accommodation, careers, disability, finance, and wellbeing, academic issues (eg problems with module selection) and exam related queries. Students can get key information and guidance from the team of Helpdesk Advisers, or make an appointment with a specialist adviser; Student Services also offer drop-in sessions and runs workshops and seminars on a range of topics. For more information see www.reading.ac.uk/student

Students in the Department of English Literature receive a Handbook which gives information about the programme, staff, facilities, and sources of specialized help within the University, such as the Study Advice Team and the Counselling Service, as well as guidance on study skills such as note-taking and referencing. The English programme is designed to give students extensive teaching support in Part 1 leading to more independent work in Part 3. The Part 1 module EN1RC Research and Context fosters core skills in research and writing through a combination of lectures, seminars and practical exercises, and guides students in the selection and use of appropriate resources. This module also introduces students to the subject librarian and to the wealth of print and electronic resources, including the OED, the MLA Bibliography, and JSTOR, held by the Library. Support for the Dissertation starts in Part 2, with lectures, seminars and tutorials helping students to develop an appropriate topic, which is then supervised in Part 3 through a combination of group work and individual supervision. Throughout the Programme, all written assignments are returned with written feedback, and from Part 2 this is supported by one-to-one essay tutorials. Further academic and personal support is provided through the personal tutor system.

Career learning

Career learning starts in Part 1 with the skills-focused module EN1RC Research and Criticism, in whose Summer Term students work on and submit a career learning exercise. Feedback on this exercise is provided at the start of Part 2 through the Personal Tutor system. Students are also regularly reminded that they may make an appointment with the Department's Careers Tutor at any time. They may also consult the Placement Tutor at regular drop-in sessions. All of this information is summarised in a Career Development folder on Blackboard, which provides links to the Careers Centre, the RED (Reading Experience and Development) award, the UROP (Undergraduate Research Opportunities) Programme and other University resources and opportunities, as well as the Department's own graduate database which outlines the career paths and provides contact details of past students who have agreed to be contactable by present undergraduates.

Career prospects

In recent years students who have gained a degree on this programme have gone into a wide variety of jobs, including teaching, publishing, journalism, the media, management, administration, and public relations. Joint degrees involving a language (like degrees in other arts subjects) can also lead to careers in such areas as marketing and computing, or may be a prelude to study in law or accountancy. Increasing numbers of students find positions in the business world, including the travel industry, where their knowledge of German can be an important asset. Some graduates also use their linguistic skills in teaching, including teaching English as a Foreign Language abroad. A Reading degree in English Literature and German provides graduates with a range of communication and analytical skills that will serve them in good stead in the marketplace. A number of graduates each year go on to further academic study and research.

Opportunities for study abroad

As part of the degree programme students have the opportunity to study abroad at an institution with which the University has a valid agreement.

Subject to arrangements made in exceptional cases only, all students on this programme spend a year abroad in Germany or Austria. Students either study at a university with which the University of Reading has an agreement under the Lifelong Learning Programme (LLP) and Erasmus University Charter, or go on a placement which may be either a teaching placement or a work placement. Full details of potential destinations can be found on both the departmental and the Erasmus & Study Abroad websites.

Placement opportunities

In addition to the Part 2 module EN2CAW Communications at work, which involves a placement, all English Literature modules at Parts 2 and 3 come with the option of an 'academic placement' which complements and develops the learning on a module. These academic placements may take place either before or after the teaching of the module. They will normally be assessed by a placement report in lieu of one element from the normal assessment pattern, but students may also elect not to have their placement report contribute towards assessment for the module. Students have the chance to discuss and develop their placement ideas at regular drop-in sessions held by the Placement Tutor. Students may take a maximum of two placements over the course of their degree.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Intellectual skills are acquired through independent reading (1), through close guided study of texts (3), seminar preparation and discussion (1-3, 5-6), and essay writing and feedback through tutorials (1-6); through language classes (7) and the completion of the dissertation (8)

Assessment

1 - 3 and 5 are assessed both formatively in coursework essays, and summatively in essays and unseen exams, 6 is assessed specifically in certain specialised options and indirectly in most parts of the programme 1- 5 are assessed formatively through seminar discussion and essay feedback and tutorials. 7 is assessed in certain language examinations, 8 by means of the dissertation.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

1 - 3 and 6 are developed in seminars, essays and essay tutorials. 4 and 5 are developed through essays, essay feedback and dissertation guidance and supervision.

In German, skills 7-8 are taught and encouraged through language classes and the requirement for independent reading; skills 9 and also 10 through regular seminars and essay assignments and feedback; skills 10 and 11 in the preparation for and presentation of the dissertation; skill 12 through the year abroad and the extensive preparation provided in Part 2 of the programme.

Assessment

All the subject specific practical skills are assessed through formative and summative essays. 1 - 3 and 6 are also tested in unseen examinations.

In German, skills 7-10 are assessed in examinations and in regular coursework; 10 and 11 are assessed through the dissertation; 12 is a progression requirement, although only the academic components are assessed.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Transferable skills are developed through seminar discussions (1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 9), through seminar presentations, essay writing, tutorial feedback and unseen examinations (1 - 9). 4 and 7 particularly are developed through requiring students to draw on acquired knowledge and skills when analysing new material in essays and unseen examinations. 5 and

6. Time-management skills
7. A creative approach to problem-solving
8. Group and interpersonal skills
9. An ability to work independently, to self-evaluate and self-reflect
10. Use of information technology, especially word-processing
11. Ability to take account of different linguistic and cultural environments
12. Plan and evaluate career possibilities.

10 are developed through use of the library and other sources of information, for seminar preparation, essay writing and research for the dissertation. Time-management skills (6) are enhanced through regular submission of language exercises and strict deadlines for assessed work. Independent work and self-reliance (9) are particularly important in the year abroad, including the dissertation, and the year abroad makes a vital contribution to 11. We require that all summatively assessed essays (in German all assessed essays) are word-processed (10). Career management (12) is taught in an element incorporated in the preparation for and supervision of the year abroad.

Assessment

1 - 7 and 9 are formatively assessed through coursework essays and seminar presentations, and summatively assessed through essays, unseen examinations, and the dissertation. 9 is encouraged through essay feedback and essay tutorials. 8 is encouraged through seminars and in tutorials. 11 is not directly assessed but informs a student's work throughout the programme, especially in the third and final years.

Please note - This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of each module can be found in the module description and in the programme handbook. The University reserves the right to modify this specification in unforeseen circumstances, or where the process of academic development and feedback from students, quality assurance process or external sources, such as professional bodies, requires a change to be made. In such circumstances, a revised specification will be issued.
