Programme information and content

The programme aims to provide you with a thorough degree level education in Museum and Classical Studies, and a sound preparation for those considering a career in the museums and heritage sector. The Classics side aims to give students experience in and understanding of Classical culture from a literary, material and thematic perspective, while also equipping them with a sound historical framework which allows them to appreciate the context of ancient texts and objects. On the Museum Studies side, students learn about the presentation of ancient culture to the public, and reflect on how we approach the past through objects and their display. They also gain essential hands-on experience working with museum objects alongside a range of professional archive and museum staff, employed across the University's Museums and Special Collections Service (UMASCS), including its three museums: MERL, the Ure Museum of Classical Archaeology, and the Cole Museum of Zoology. All this will be achieved through structured progression from Parts 1 to 3.

Part 1:	Museum Studies introduces you to the principles and practices of the museum sector and builds relevant skills of research and analysis in a professional context. Classical Studies introduces you to the study of Greek and Roman culture, with a particular emphasis upon the development of the study of primary sources and source criticism, alongside the development of writing skills to explore specific topics in Greek and Roman Civilisations.
Part 2:	Museum Studies focuses on practical museum work and the engagement with primary data, the development of analytical skills and the nature of interpretation through a museum placement and a series of 'real-world' research and design projects within working museums.

	Classical Studies provides you with a knowledge of ancient literature and develops an awareness of the role of the classics in the shaping of the modern Western culture via compulsory core modules which also develop their literary skills. In addition, students choose three option modules that are either more thematic or add greater depth than the core modules.
Part 3:	Museum Studies lets you develop (design, plan, create and evaluate) a museum display through the supervised project and gives the opportunity for increasing specialisation through the provision of a range of specialist subjects as well as for conducting an original research project through the dissertation. Classical Studies gives you the opportunity to approach topics in greater depth through the provision of optional modules and the opportunity to research a dissertation topic in depth.

Placement opportunities

Placements:

You are required to undertake a compulsory placement as part of your Programme. The University will assist you in finding a placement in a setting which it will approve with placement providers who are, where appropriate, regulated and monitored by the professional authorities associated with your Programme.

Study Abroad:

You may be provided with the opportunity to undertake a Study Abroad placement during your Programme. This is subject to you meeting academic conditions detailed in the Programme Handbook, including obtaining the relevant permissions from your School, and the availability of a suitable Study Abroad placement. If you undertake a Study Abroad placement, further arrangements will be discussed and agreed with you.

Teaching and learning delivery:

You will be taught through a mixture of lectures and seminars in Parts 1 and 2, with a greater emphasis on seminars in Part 3. The dissertation in Part 3 comprises a piece of work based on supervised independent study. The third year exhibition module and assignments in Parts 1 and 2 in Museum Studies are formulated around an Enquiry-Based Learning Module where students work individually or in groups to solve real world problems. Museum Studies teaching all takes place within the campus museums, libraries and archives.

Total study hours for each Part of your programme will be 1200 hours. The contact hours for your programme will depend upon your module combination; an average for a typical set of modules on this programme is Part 1 - 264 hours, Part 2 - 96 hours, Part 3 - 60 hours. In addition to your scheduled contact hours, you will be expected to undertake guided independent study. Information about module contact hours and the amount of independent study which a student is normally expected to undertake for a module is indicated in the relevant module description.

Assessment

The programme will be assessed through a combination of written examinations and coursework.

Museum Studies modules are also assessed by oral presentation, learning journal and practical projects with accompanying reflective essays. The exhibition module is assessed by group exhibition, reflective journal and literature review.
