Programme information and content

High quality education is essential if individuals are to realise their full potential and the teacher is fundamental in that process. This Primary Initial Teacher Training and Education (ITTE) programme is based on the view that effective and meaningful education comes about as a result of active, dialectical learning that enables the development of analytical and creative skills. The programme aims to develop the individual student's identity as a subject leader (Art) with a well-developed understanding of the knowledge and skills required to achieve high standards as newly qualified members of the teaching profession. By working in partnership with successful schools on programme design, delivery and evaluation, the programme aims to enable students to achieve their full potential as teachers in both Key Stage 1 and 2. As is appropriate to a professional programme, such as this, there is an emphasis on the development of professional values and attributes, as defined by the Teachers' Standards, the Department for Education's (DfE) standards for Qualified Teacher Status (QTS).

The content of the programme follows three distinct yet closely related strands of work. These are: Subject Specialism (Art), Professional Studies, and Curriculum Studies. The programme comprises 17 modules, 6 each in years 1 and 2, with 5 in year 3, together with 3 non-credit bearing school experience placement modules.

The Subject Specialism modules, The Arts, Children and Education, allow students to pursue their chosen specialism (Art) as a discrete discipline to Honours level (Level 6). This strand will explore the interface between the chosen specialism, children and teaching and learning in the primary school.

The Professional Studies strand will ensure that students have the study skills they need to take control over their own learning. It will introduce students to major theories regarding teaching and learning, child development and behaviour, curriculum design and the roles and responsibilities of the teacher. There will be particular focus in the final year on children's individual needs, which will include working with children with special educational needs.

Curriculum Studies modules will explore in depth the content of the core subjects of the primary curriculum. The core subjects are regarded as English, Mathematics and Science. Computer Science is seen as an integral aspect of each of these in terms of its capacity for and application to store and retrieve information, communicate, calculate and compute. Physical Education is also acknowledged as being central to the primary curriculum and students will study all subject areas to explore what is taught, how it is taught and importantly, why it is taught. You will critically investigate learning resources and utilise your own creativity to develop and employ pedagogy appropriate to these diverse curriculum demands. Through critical investigation, students will be encouraged to be creative, independent thinkers who are able to propose, and defend, appropriate pedagogies for the meaningful delivery of diverse curriculum demands.

In addition to the taught modules, trainees will be required to undertake supervised school placements in line with government requirements. Serial visits will provide opportunities for trainees to research into and experience first-hand elements of the taught modules described above and may contribute towards the assessment schedule of those modules. Students will also have some week-long placements which may be focused around priority areas or key elements of teaching practice.

To appropriately address the Teachers' Standards by the end of the programme and develop effective professional attributes, full attendance and active participation in all modules is a requirement.

Part 1:	Introduces you to the ideas of developing a deep insight in the teaching and learning of art within the primary classroom. There will also be a strong focus on the way that art can contribute to the development of the child. In your professional terms, you will start to understand the nature of teaching in primary schools and start to unpick the requirements of the primary curriculum. You will have a weekly serial placement or Key Stage 1, as a precursor to your block placement in a Key Stage 1 classroom. Your work will be assessed through course work, presentations and practical workshops.
Part 2:	Provides you with an understanding of child art and its influence on art and art education. You will learn about the history of art from the late 19th Century to the present day. In the professional terms, you will unpack the teaching and learning of all areas of the primary curriculum and the progression of ideas. You will especially develop an insight into the teaching and learning strategies within Key Stage 2. Your placement will be in a Key Stage 2 classroom. Your work will be assessed through course work, presentations and practical workshops.
Part 3:	Gives you the opportunity to understand and develop clear strategies and skills to become an Art Subject Leader in the future. You will continue to gain a critical insight and knowledge of contemporary art and its use in the classroom. Your professional terms will focus on issues of inclusion within primary education and the tools that you will need to be successful educators of the future. You will also undertake a final year research project on an education issue they you are interested in.

Additional costs of the programme

During your programme of study you will incur some additional costs.

For textbooks and similar learning resources, we recommend that you budget up to £100 per year, depending on your preference to have your own books rather than borrow from the Library. Some books may be available second-hand, which will reduce costs. A range of resources to support your curriculum, including textbooks and electronic resources, are available through the library. Reading lists and module specific costs are listed on the individual module descriptions.

We also recommend you budget up to £100 in respect of any additional art materials you will need during your modules, this will vary according to the materials used.

Printing and photocopying facilities are available on campus at a cost per A4 page of £0.05 (black and white) and £0.30 (colour). Essential costs in this area will be low as most coursework will be submitted electronically.

There is a compulsory gallery/museum visit which will cost in the region of £30.

Costs are indicative and may vary according to optional modules chosen and are subject to inflation and other price fluctuations.

The estimates were calculated in 2021.
