Summary of programme aims

The programme aims to provide a thorough degree level education in Classical Studies. The syllabus aims to familiarise students with the literature, art, philosophy and history of Greek and Roman cultures and their reception and use in modern culture, whilst providing them with the opportunity to study more thematic topics in depth. The programme also provides for the development of the specific interests of students through independent study and specifically the dissertation. Students will expand the range, depth and sophistication of their knowledge of Classical Studies through the structured progression of Part 1 and Post-Part 1 of the programme.

Transferable skills

The University's Strategy for Teaching and Learning has identified a number of generic transferable skills which all students are expected to have developed by the end of their degree programme. In following this programme, students will have had the opportunity to enhance their skills relating to career management, communication (both written and oral), information handling, numeracy, problem-solving, team working and use of information technology.

Programme content

Part-time degree programmes, like full-time programmes, are made up of study elements called modules. The size of a module is measured in terms of credits, a credit entails a notional 10 hours of study. For a full-time programme each year contains modules totalling 120 credits. Most modules are 20 credits in size but some are 10 credits and others are multiples of 20 credits (for example dissertations are often 40 credits in size).

Modules are offered at one of three levels. In ascending order these are:

Certificate (C) level

Intermediate (I) level

Honours (H) level

All part-time degree programmes entail study of modules totalling a minimum of 360 credits.

Students must take the compulsory and optional modules required for their degree programme, the following minimum number of credits being required at the levels indicated:

Certificate level (C) 100 credits minimum

Intermediate level (I) 100 credits minimum

Honours level (H) 100 credits minimum

Part-time programmes are divided into two sections:

Part 1 involves studying modules totalling at least 80 credits and no more than 120 Certificate level credits (120 credits are equivalent to one year of full-time study), then passing the Part 1 Examination in order to progress to the remainder of the degree.

Post-Part I, where students take the remaining modules needed to complete their degree programme.

Students must take at C level those modules required for progression to one or more degree subjects, but may take individual modules from any available programme to make up the necessary minimum total of 100 credits at C level.

Of the 100 or more credits taken at I level, 5 are taken up with Career Management Skills. Details of this component appear in Appendix 1

Students must complete at least 80 credits at I level before they can proceed to study any H level modules.

The content of this particular degree programme is:

Part 1 introduces students to the study of Graeco-Roman culture. There is a particular emphasis upon the use of primary sources and source criticism together with the development of writing skills to explore specific topics of Greek and Roman Civilisations. Students are also encouraged to take a further 20 credits in Themes in Greek and Roman Society. At the Post-Part 1 level, compulsory core units develop the students' knowledge of ancient literature, together with an awareness of the role of the classics in the shaping of the modern Western culture. Further optional units, more thematic or approached in greater depth than the core units, develop their academic capabilities through an increasing specialisation. In addition, the compulsory dissertation offers students the opportunity to research a topic of their choice. The Post-Part 1 programme is delivered on a rolling basis over a four-year cycle. Two full 20-credit modules (one compulsory, one optional) and one optional 10-credit half-module will be offered each year.

Progression requirements

The structure of part-time degrees is that students first of all take the degree subject(s) they want to study at Certificate level. The subject(s) form Part 1 of the programme. Part 1 must contain at least 80 credits, so that, if the modules for a student's chosen subject (s) add up to less than 80 credits, an additional module or two will need to be taken to achieve that total.

There is a Part 1 Examination in May or June, which students have to pass in order to go on to their degree choice at Intermediate and Honours levels.

To proceed from Part 1 students must have passed modules totalling at least 80 credits at Certificate level and must also have passed those modules required for progression to their chosen degree, with a minimum mark of 40%. To pass the Part 1 Examination a student must have a minimum average of 40% in at least 80 credits and not less than 30% in any individual module. Students who do not qualify to proceed from Part 1 at the first attempt may re-sit the required modules in a re-examination held in September.

Students must complete at least 80 credits at I level before they can proceed to any module at level H.

Re-examinations for C, I and H level modules are held annually in September.

Students who do not qualify for a degree will be entitled to the following qualification provided they have obtained the minimum number of credits indicated:

Certificate of Higher Education 100 credits at levels C and 20 credits at any level.

Diploma of Higher Education

240 credits, with at least 100 credits at I level or above.

The specific progression requirements for this programme are as follows:

Students are required to have passed the Part 1 modules in Greek and Roman Civilisations: Fifth Century Athens and Greek and Roman Civilisations: Rome in the Augustan Age with 40% average across both modules before proceeding to the single-subject Classical Studies evening degree.

Summary of teaching and assessment

Teaching throughout the degree is delivered through lectures and seminars. The dissertation comprises a piece of work based on independent supervised study. Assessment is by examination and/or coursework depending upon the module.

To reflect the notion of progression through the programme, Level H examinations will have a greater impact on a student's Final Degree Classification, with Level I examinations contributing 33% of the Final grade and Level H examinations contributing 67%.

The University's honours classification is as follows:

Mark:	Interpretation
70%-100%	First class
60%-69%	Upper Second class
50%-59%	Lower Second class
40%-49%	Third class
35%-39%	Below Honours standard
0%-34%	Fail

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained:

Since the Department views the evening part-time degree in terms of widening access there are no formal requirements for entrance. On receipt of their applications, applicants will be interviewed by the Departmental Part-Time Co-ordinator.

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by the Careers Advisory Service, the University's Special Needs Advisor, Study Advisors, Hall Wardens and the Students' Union.

The Department produces separate Handbooks for day-time and evening students, which offer guidance on study skills such as note-taking and essay writing, and information about staff, facilities, and sources of specialized help within the University, such as the Study Skills Advisor and the Counselling Service. Academic feedback and guidance is given through one-to-one essay tutorials, and academic and personal support is provided through the Departmental Part-Time Co-ordinator and the Faculty Co-ordinator for Part-Time Degrees.

Career prospects

Graduates in Classical Studies have found that their degree course has been a good basis for careers in management, administration, the civil service, commerce, law, publishing, librarianship and teaching. Graduates have also gone on to postgraduate courses within the field of the Classics at Reading and elsewhere.

Educational aims of the programme

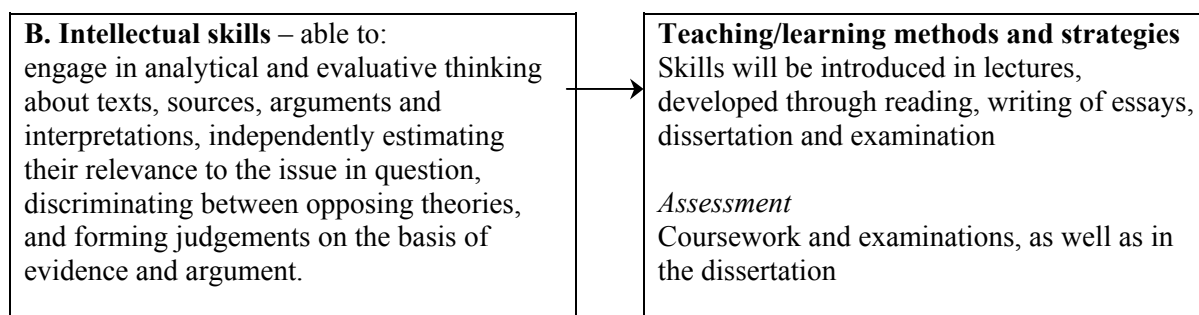

The programme aims to provide a thorough degree level education in Classical Studies. It aims to produce graduates in Classical Studies who have experience of thematic and genre based approaches to the cultures of antiquity.

Programme Outcomes

Knowledge and Understanding

Skills and other attributes

C. Practical skills – able to:

- gather, organise and deploy evidence and information, and to show awareness of the consequences of the unavailability of evidence,
- develop the capacity for critical judgement in the light of evidence and argument,
- select and apply appropriate methodologies in assessing the meaning and significance of evidence or data, have effective bibliographical and library research skills.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

These are developed through the deployment of seminar classes and essay assignments. Oral presentation also constitutes a percentage of the assessment of the dissertation

Assessment

Coursework and examinations, as well as in the dissertation

D. Transferable skills – able to:

- deploy a range of IT resources effectively,
- present material orally in a clear and effective manner,
- present material in a written form, with discrimination and lucidity in the use of language, professional referencing, and clear layout,
- work creatively, flexibly and adaptably with others, to write and think under pressure and to meet deadlines.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

In lectures and seminars and applied in self-study and writing of assignments

Assessment

Coursework and examinations, as well as in the dissertation

Please note: This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably expect to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of each module can be found in module and programme handbooks.
