Terms and conditions of use for Library networked services

Please pay particular attention to clauses 1, 2, and 6 in ‘General terms of use’.

I acknowledge and agree that resources and their content (the "Licensed Material") are protected by copyright as stated in the Copyright Acknowledgement and their use is subject to limitations and Agreements which are summarised in the Terms of Use (listed below). Details of Agreements for specific e-resources are available online, and I undertake to read these when I first log in to use each specific e-resource.

I shall regard any passwords provided as personal to me and I undertake not to divulge them to a third party.

General terms of use

1. Each person must read and abide by Copyright Acknowledgement.
2. Use of the Licensed Material is restricted to the following purposes: teaching; research; personal educational development; administration and management of the business of the University; and development work associated with any of the aforementioned unless specifically prohibited by the Service Provider.
3. Use of the Licensed Material is not permitted for consultancy or services leading to commercial exploitation of the Licensed Material or for work of significant benefit to the employer of students on industrial placement or part-time courses without prior agreement of the Vendor.
4. Users may print, or download and save, single copies of extracts of the Licensed Material (for example, one chapter, one article, or results of searches of the data) for their own personal use.
5. Users must comply with the provisions of UK law relating to the misuse of computing facilities, and shall not deliberately impair or undermine the usability or performance of computing facilities, the communication network or stored information.
6. Users are required to take all reasonable precautions to maintain integrity of passwords and any other security measures. Users are required to comply with any special conditions of use relating to individual databases which may be given in the user documentation available to registered users.
7. Users are required to respect Intellectual Property rights, including copyright and database right, in the Licensed Material. Failure to do so may result in: the imposition of restrictions on use of IT Facilities and Systems; withdrawal of access to all Authorised Users; withdrawal of offending material; fines, and recovery of any costs incurred by the University as a result of the breach.
8. Where relevant, these generic guidelines will always be superseded by specific clauses in individual licence agreements. To see terms and conditions for each individual licence agreement, find the resource on the E-Journals Finder and click on ‘Terms of use’.

4. I will use the Product for the purposes defined in the Agreement, and only on computer systems covered by the Agreement.
5. I will not incorporate a modified version of the Product in any program written by me without express permission of the Licensor.
6. I will not reverse engineer or decompile the Product or attempt to do so without such permission explicitly being permitted within the terms of the Agreement for the use of the Product.
7. I will return all copies of the Product at the end of my course/period of employment or when requested to do so.
